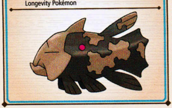
Longevity Pokémon



National Pokédex 369 WATER

Height: 3'03" | Weight: 51.6 lbs.
Deep Sea Scale

The male's cheeks hang lower than the female's cheeks.

Thought to have gone extinct, Relicanth was given a name that is a variation of the name of the person who discovered it.

The reason it hasn't changed at all in a hundred million years is that it's apparently already a perfect life-form.

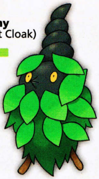
Burmy's Changing Forms

Burmy takes on different forms after taking part in battle. While some Pokémon immediately change form due to some condition during a battle, Burmy is a bit unusual because it instead changes forms after a battle ends. Depending on the environment that it last battled in, Burmy will be in one of three different forms after the battle. In addition, once it reaches Lv. 20, female Burmy evolve into Wormadam—and that Wormadam will be stuck permanantly in the form that Burmy was in at the time it evolved. Be careful when you level up your female Burmy if you're hoping for a particular form of Wormadam!

Burmy
(Plant Cloak)

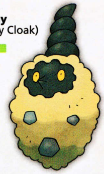
BUG



Burmy takes this form after it appears in battle in grassy locations, like many routes and meadows. It also takes this form after battling in snowy mountains, jungles, ranchland, or on the water's surface.

Burmy
(Sandy Cloak)

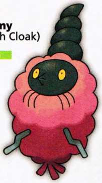
BUG



Burmy takes this form after it appears in battle in sandy areas, like beaches and deserts, as well as rocky areas, like dry mountains, and canyons. It also takes this form after battling in certain man-made areas, like cemeteries, dusty paths, and sandy schoolyards.

Burmy
(Trash Cloak)

BUG



Burmy takes this form after it appears in battle in many areas inhabited by people, including large and small cities, abandoned ruins, and even locations in Ultra Space. It also takes this form after battling in the Pokémon League.

It discharges moisture from its eyes, making it look like it's crying—apparently an effective way of getting enemies to let down their guard.

If its body gets too damp, it will die. So, in a process reminiscent of sweating, its eyes expel moisture.

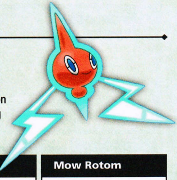
When Rotom changes forms, it learns different moves it can't learn in its default form. Heat Rotom learns Overheat, Wash Rotom learns Hydro Pump, Frost Rotom learns Blizzard, Fan Rotom learns Air Slash, and Mow Rotom learns Leaf Storm. When it changes back to its default form, or changes between forms, it forgets the move it had learned. If Rotom knows no other moves when it returns to its default form, it will learn the move Thunder Shock.

Rotom's Transformations



You may be familiar with the Rotom you encounter in your Rotom Dex, but if you catch or obtain a Rotom for yourself, you'll discover that it can take on many other forms in addition to that one! If you want to get one for yourself, you can find it in the Poni Gauntlet by using Island Scan on Poni Island on a Tuesday in Pokémon Ultra Sun or Pokémon Ultra Moon. Once you do, take it to Professor Kukui's Pokémon Research Lab in Hau'oli Outskirts. If you head downstairs, you will find some cardboard boxes containing appliances. Examining these boxes with Rotom in your party will let you change its form.

Darmanitan's Zen Mode

If you obtain a Darmanitan with the Hidden Ability Zen Mode, then you will have a rare specimen on your hands that is capable of a special form change! A Darmanitan with the Zen Mode Ability will change to Zen Mode Darmanitan in battle if its HP drops to half or below of its maximum. While a Darmanitan in its Standard Mode has high Attack and Speed stats, a Zen Mode Darmanitan gets a boost to its Defense and Sp. Def and especially to its Sp. Atk.

If Darmanitan recovers enough HP while it is in Zen Mode that it has more than half of its max HP again, it will return to Standard Mode Darmanitan at the end of that turn. Zen Mode Darmanitan also returns to its usual form after the battle ends, regardless of its current HP.

Deerling and Sawsbuck

Deerling and Sawsbuck are Pokémon first found in Pokémon Black Version and Pokémon White Version. You can obtain the Spring Form of Deerling in Pokémon Omega Ruby and Pokémon Alpha Sapphire, and then evolve it into Spring Form Sawsbuck. But if you hope to obtain any of these Pokémon's other seasonal forms, you will have to bring them from an older game using Pokémon Bank and its linked application, Poké Transporter. If you do bring a Deerling or Sawsbuck into your game using this method, it will retain whatever form it was in when you sent it to Pokémon Bank. These different forms do not change type, but they sure do look festive!

Spring Form

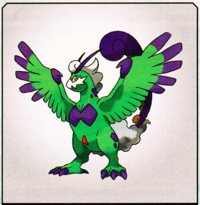
Therian Formes of Tornadus, Thundurus, and Landorus

Once you obtain Tornadus, Thundurus, and Landorus in the Ultra Space Wilds, or from another game, you can help them change their forms by using an item called the Reveal Glass. You can receive this item from Professor Burnet in the Dimensional Research Lab in Heahea City once you have cleared your second grand trial. Choose to use it on any of these three Pokémon to change them between their Therian Forme and Incarnate Forme.



Tornadus (Therian Forme)

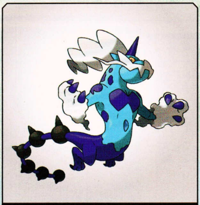
FLYING

Height: 4'07" | Weight: 138.9 lbs.

ABILITY

Regenerator

Use the Reveal Glass on Tornadus when in its Incarnate Forme, and it will change to its Therian Forme. It will stay in this form unless you use the Reveal Glass on it again.



Thundurus (Therian Forme)

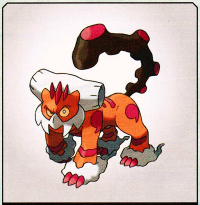
ELECTRIC FLYING

Height: 9'10" | Weight: 134.5 lbs.

ABILITY

Volt Absorb

Use the Reveal Glass on Thundurus when in its Incarnate Forme, and it will change to its Therian Forme. It will stay in this form unless you use the Reveal Glass on it again.



Landorus (Therian Forme)

GROUND FLYING

Height: 4'03" | Weight: 149.9 lbs.

ABILITY

Intimidate

Use the Reveal Glass on Thundurus when in its Incarnate Forme, and it will change to its Therian Forme. It will stay in this form unless you use the Reveal Glass on it again.

*Although Tornadus, Thundurus, and Landorus mostly learn the same moves in both their Incarnate Forme and Therian Forme, there is one exception. Incarnate Forme Thundurus can learn Smart Strike from TM67, but Therian Forme Thundurus cannot.

Keldeo and Meloetta's Form Changes

The Mythical Pokémon Keldeo and Meloetta each have alternate forms that they can take on, and both are related to special moves they can learn from a Move Tutor. You can find this Move Tutor in the Hano Grand Resort on Akala Island. If he teaches Keldeo the move Secret Sword, it will change into its Resolute Form and remain in that form unless it forgets Secret Sword. And if he teaches Meloetta the move Relic Song, it will be able to change into its Pirouette Forme in battle.

If you hope to collect them all, you'll need the GTS (p. 22) and a good deal of luck. These patterns are just for looks, and all forms of Vivillon share the same types and moves, but a complete collection is quite the sight to behold!

Flabébé's Different Colors

Flabébé and its Evolutions all appear in five different forms, which vary by the color of the flowers they love so dearly. These different forms do not differ in type, moves, or any other stats. But the color of their flowers are carried over through Evolution, meaning that a Red Flower Flabébé will always evolve into a Red Flower Floette, which will then evolve without fail into a Red Flower Florges.

Red Flower Forms

Flabébé (Red Flower) Floette (Red Flower) Florges (Red Flower)

Red Flower Floette can be caught in the tall grass or red flowers of Ula'ula Meadow and then evolved into Red Flower Florges. Red Flower Flabébé can be obtained by leaving a Red Flower Floette at the Pokémon Nursery with a compatible Pokémon, then hatching the Egg that is found.

Yellow Flower Forms

Flabébé (Yellow Flower) Floette (Yellow Flower) Florges (Yellow Flower)

Yellow Flower Flabébé can be caught in the yellow flowers of Melemele Meadow and then evolved into Yellow Flower Floette, which can then be evolved into Yellow Flower Florges.

Orange Flower Forms

Flabébé (Orange Flower) Floette (Orange Flower) Florges (Orange Flower)

Orange Flower Flabébé can be encountered as an SOS ally called by Yellow Flower Flabébé in Melemele Meadow. Orange Flower Floette can be encountered as an SOS ally called by Red Flower Floette in Ula'ula Meadow or by Blue Flower Floette in Poni Meadow. It can then be evolved or used to discover Pokémon Eggs.

Blue Flower Forms

Flabébé (Blue Flower) Floette (Blue Flower) Florges (Blue Flower)

Blue Flower Floette can be caught in the tall grass of Poni Meadow and then evolved into Blue Flower Florges. Blue Flower Flabébé can be obtained by leaving a Blue Flower Floette at the Pokémon Nursery with a compatible Pokémon, then hatching the Egg that is found.

White Flower Forms

Flabébé (White Flower) Floette (White Flower) Florges (White Flower)

White Flower Flabébé can be encountered as an SOS ally called by Yellow Flower Flabébé in Melemele Meadow. White Flower Floette can be encountered as an SOS ally called by Red Flower Floette in Ula'ula Meadow or by Blue Flower Floette in Poni Meadow. It can then be evolved or used to discover Pokémon Eggs.

Furfrou Trims

When encountered in the wild, Furfrou will appear in its Natural Form. But if you bring one to the salon in Malie City, there is a Beauty there who will be delighted to groom it into different trims. These different appearances do not affect its stats in any way, and each trim lasts only five days, but give them a try if you happen to get a Furfrou in your party.

Aegislash's Blade Forme

Aegislash usually appears in its Shield Forme, but when compelled to take a more offensive approach to battle, its Stance Change Ability allows it to change into its Blade Forme! This form change is triggered by using any offensive move in battle, and the transformation occurs before the attack is launched. Since Blade Forme Aegislash has higher Attack and Sp. Atk stats than Shield Forme Aegislash, this means that its attack will hit harder when it does land.

Blade Forme Aegislash can also be changed back to its Shield Forme in battle if Trainers feel the need for Shield Forme's higher Defense and Sp. Def stats. Commanding Blade Forme Aegislash to use the move King's Shield will change it back to its Shield Forme before the move can be completed. Trainers can switch between these two forms as they wish during battle to keep an advantage over their opponents!

Pumpkaboo and Gourgeist Sizes

At first glance, all Pumpkaboo and Gourgeist may look the same. But they actually come in different sizes when encountered in the wild! Both of these two Pokémon species have a Small Size, Average Size, Large Size, and Super Size form, and their stats are affected by their size. They generally get slower but sturdier the larger they are. When a Pumpkaboo evolves into Gourgeist, the Gourgeist will inherit the same form as the Pumpkaboo.

These moves can be taught to Zygarde using the Zygarde Cube you receive from Dexio at the same time that you receive 10% Forme Zygarde from him.

Zygarde's Complete Forme

A 10% Forme or 50% Forme Zygarde with the Power Construct Ability can take on the Complete Forme in battle. Either of these two forms will automatically change to Complete Forme Zygarde at the end of its turn if its HP has dropped to half or below of its maximum value. This form has a far higher HP than either of Zygarde's other forms, and its new HP will be recalculated to be the same percentage of the max as Zygarde had before changing forms.

For example, if a 10% Forme Zygarde had only 51 of its maximum 114 HP left before changing forms, that would be 45% of its max HP. If changing to Complete Forme increased its max HP to 276, then its new HP would be calculated to also be 45% of that max number or 124. In effect, this form change can leave Zygarde with more HP than its maximum HP was before changing forms!

Zygarde will return to its regular form, whether 10% Forme or 50% Forme, after the battle ends, and Zygarde with the Aura Break Ability cannot change to Complete Forme.

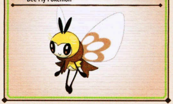
✓ Ribombee

Bee Fly Pokémon



National Pokédex	743	BUG
Alola Pokédex	099	FAIRY

Height: 0'08" | Weight: 1.1 lbs.

Honey

Same form for male/female

Rain makes pollen damp, so Ribombee hates rain. When it sees ominous clouds, it finds a hollow in a tree, where it waits stock-still.

It can predict the weather from moisture levels and wind direction. Ribombee only reveals itself when there are a few clear days in a row.

EVOLUTION

Cutiefly

Ribombee

MAIN WAY TO OBTAIN

Catch it when it appears in the tall grass and red flowers in Ula'ula Meadow. Or obtain a Cutiefly, then level it up to Lv. 25 or higher to evolve it into Ribombee. A special totem-sized form of Ribombee can also be obtained by helping out Professor Samson Oak in Pokémon Ultra Sun.
